

POLICE ARE TO CURB THE PATRIOTIC ARDOR

Stringent Laws to Be Enforced on the Fourth.

MISTAKES AS TO LIBERTY

Some Regulations Suspended, But No Lawlessness to Be Permitted.

As a result of the proposed suspension of the police regulations governing the use of fireworks on the Fourth of July, the belief has spread through the city that the District officials have arranged to allow an old-time celebration of the day.

This view of the action has caused the police some worry, and it is feared that the violations of the law will be more frequent on account of the spreading of a wrong impression.

As a matter of fact the regulations are more stringent than ever before, and extreme precautions are to be taken to prevent violation of the law.

Shorter Hours.

At the recommendation of Major Sylvester the regulation will be laid aside for the day, but only with a number of provisions that restrict those commemorating the event from enjoying illegal license.

The size limit of crackers, permitted by law, is smaller, and the time for celebrating will be lessened an hour. Last year the rattle and roar of exploding bombs began at 6 a. m. This year the shooting of crackers is not to be allowed until 7 a. m.

On the nights of July 3 and 4 the streets will be patrolled by all of the police force. Major Sylvester is expecting some difficulty in deterring the men so as to give each section of the city the best protection possible.

The most perplexing problem is the lack of men. A large force will be required to control the crowds at the parade, and at the same time an equally large number will be necessary for regular duty.

White House Lot.

Another false impression that Washingtonians have gathered in past years is the belief that the presence of all citizens is wanted at the White House Lot on the night of the Fourth. This idea is altogether erroneous. On the other hand, it is the contention of the police that the fireworks can be seen just as well from any part of the city, and that there is no need for the great influx to the grounds of the Executive Mansion.

In spite of the stringent regulations, there is every reason to believe that the day will not be marked by any lack of enthusiasm and noise.

The ceremonies in connection with the patriotic ceremonies to be held in the President's grounds on the morning of the Fourth of July will hold a rehearsal on Friday evening in St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, Eleventh and H Streets northwest.

The choir will be under the direction of William J. Palmer, and Prof. N. Carozzi will preside at the organ at this rehearsal.

Joseph A. Burkart, of 109 Corcoran Building, has on hand a supply of badges for the fireworks committee. They can be had on application.

The Fourth of July subscription fund now amounts to $2,354.83, the following sums having been received since last report:

Brightwood Avenue Citizens' Association, Louis P. Shoemaker, president, $17; employees of Thomas W. Smith, $12.95; Thomas Nelson, $10; pupils of Randall School, $2.50; pupils of Syphax School, $1.30; D. W. Oyster, $2; T. T. Keane, C. Krognan, George M. Oyster, Jr., Hoover & Denham, H. C. Coburn, C. Engel's Sons, A. J. Hurley, G. La Fontaine, Henry Thomsford, each $1.

CANNON TO PREVENT A CHANGE IN LAWS

Will Allow No Financial Legislation This Session.

Unless the plans of Representative Joseph Cannon of Illinois, who is scheduled to be the next Speaker of the House, go astray, there is to be no financial legislation at the coming session of Congress.

It seems that several New York bankers have been in conference on the question recently with the President, urging legislation for more elasticity in currency, one plan being to allow banks the privilege of substituting first-class securities other than Government bonds for Government deposits and the repeal of that part of the law which compels sequestration of custom house receipts in the subtreasuries.

George W. Perkins, of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., was among those who saw the President.

It is said that there has been some sentiment in the House in favor of financial legislation, but this sentiment is dying out since the position of Representative Cannon has become known.

Mr. Cannon announced that he is unalterably opposed to financial legislation, which he is quoted as saying is demanded only by Wall Street.

Mr. Cannon takes the ground that neither the West nor the South demands more money, such a demand coming from Wall Street and Eastern money centers. Mr. Cannon, who is president of the national bank at Danville, Ill., declares that if Eastern bankers would reduce their call loans and bring the speculative interests of Wall Street down to a conservative basis there would be no occasion for the creation of more money by legislation.

The Western banks, he says, have large reserves in the East, and these reserves are being used to manipulate the markets.

WOMEN TO BE BARRED FROM RAILWAY OFFICES

Stand in Way of Regular Promotions, Say Officials.

CHICAGO, July 1.—No more women stenographers for the Chicago and Northwestern Railway. This is the word that has been passed around among the officers at general headquarters of the company, Fifth Avenue and Lake Street, where nearly 200 typewriters are employed.

The heads of departments say they have nothing against the fair sex, but that they do not think women are fitted for railroad work, and as the business is operated largely in the manner of the civil service, the women stand in the way of regular promotions among the rank and file.

The Illinois Central, Burlington, Santa Fe, and Rock Island are all to follow along similar lines.

CONCENTRATION OF SUN'S RAYS CAUSES FIRE

PEORIA, Ill., July 1.—A skylight in the ceiling of the room occupied by the Chicago Millinery Parlors, on North Adams Street Monday, concentrated the sun's rays, thus operating as a burning glass, and set fire to the paper and cloth which had been placed over the skylight to exclude the light.

The paper burned up quickly and fell on the stock, setting fire to the furnishings. The loss will figure several hundred dollars. The weather was the hottest of the summer season, the mercury registering 92 in the shade.

"ENGLISH SOUSA" DEAD.

LONDON, July 1.—Lieut. Dan Godfrey, often called "the English Sousa," who toured America on several occasions with his famous granadilla band, is dead. He was seventy-two years of age.

NO WHOLESALE SHAKE-UP IN THE PENSION OFFICE

Annual Task of Counting Pending Cases Has Begun.

Appointment Clerk Brooks, of the Pension Office, denied this morning that there were to be any wholesale changes in the clerical staff of the office, dating from today, as has been rumored. This was in contradiction of a report that thirty or forty promotions would be announced, and that a number of employees would lose their positions.

The annual task of counting the pending cases was begun this morning, and will require a week of hard work on the part of a large force of clerks before it is completed.

The executive officers of the department have been busy during the past month getting ready their statements for the end of the fiscal year, which was yesterday. All that could be learned this morning was that an unusually large number of cases had been disposed of during the past year, but the figures have not yet been tabulated. It is thought that the totals will be ready for announcement by the middle of next week.

The appropriation for the Pension Office made allowance for two clerks less than last year, but there will be no dismissals on that account, according to Mr. Brooks, as vacancies exist into which the extra two clerks will be placed.

SUES FOR DIVORCE.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Elbridge Gerry Snow, Jr., the young society man, has commenced an action for divorce against his wife, who has practically been a prisoner at the Rochelle apartments in West Seventy-fifth Street, this week. Mrs. Snow has been avoiding detectives whom her husband's lawyers employed to serve a writ of habeas corpus for their two children.

A CONSOLIDATION OF RULINGS CONSUMMATED

Supreme Mystic Ruler of Philadelphia Addressed Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Relief Ruling, No. 55, of the Fraternal Mystic Circle, was held last night at the hall in Pennsylvania Avenue southeast. A consolidation of Relief Olympic and National Rulings was effected, and six new members were initiated.

E. W. Goodson presided and addresses were made by F. H. Duckwitz, supreme mystic ruler, of Philadelphia; Will W. Nyman, supreme representative; George W. Fridinger, past grand ruler; J. T. McCune and P. R. Otterback.

A musical and literary program was given by Harry Heinlein, Miss Rosa Herzog, Miss Lotta Herzog, Miss Ruby Petter, Miss Amelia Hollander, Frank M. Scott, and Mr. McGrath.

DEATH KNELL SOUNDED FOR EDUCATION BILL

LONDON, July 1.—The "Evening Sun" sounds the death knell of the London educational bill, the government's pet legislative scheme. The dispatch says: "We are enabled to publish on the best of authority that the London educational bill is about to be dropped by the government, and is dying. This decision was arrived at in consequence of the serious dimensions which the passive resistance movement has already attained in the country districts." In official circles, however, the report is characterized as a "ridiculous fabrication."

MADE HIS OWN COFFIN.

YORK, Pa., July 1.—Philip Altland, aged eighty-two, of New Salem, who died Saturday, after an illness of eight weeks, was buried yesterday. He was a cabinet-maker, and it is said, many years ago made his own coffin and stored it away.

COTTON GOODS BOUND TO GO UP IN PRICE

Raw Material at Almost Prohibitive Figure.

"The cotton situation is becoming more and more interesting and the outlook for the mills and the merchants more cloudy," said a prominent Washington merchant today. "The price of the raw material has reached 14 cents a pound, which may be termed a prohibitive price. Mills in Lowell are shipping bales of raw cotton back to New Orleans, because it costs them more to buy it than they would get for the cotton goods turned out by them and sold to the merchants."

"One of two things must happen. Either the present high price of raw material must drop or the price of cotton goods must increase. The reliable and long-established merchant will do everything in his power to keep the price of cotton goods—or any goods—the same as usual. Any change is sure to irritate customers. There is, too, a prohibitive price beyond which the buying public will not go."

Price Almost Prohibitive.

"We have nearly reached this price in cotton goods. An advance in price of one-half cent or one cent a yard does not seem great, but often such an increase will perhaps change the business in cotton goods from a success to a failure."

"We have learned by long experience that the public must be handled with gloves and that any sudden change in the prices will scare customers off and they will try 'somewhere else.' The majority of buyers—and that means 75 out of a 100 in Washington—will make their old things last in hopes of a drop in prices. If they cannot buy their accustomed supplies at the accustomed prices."

"As an instance of what the public will do in this line, take the sale of winter underwear, half cotton and half wool, last year. There was no really cold weather here until after Christmas. Consequently the public, with the exception of a few wealthy buyers who always provide themselves with what the season demands, made the fall weight do until spring came and the winter underwear business was a failure for both the merchant and the manufacturer."

Orders Canceled.

"For as soon as the merchant found that the goods did not sell he canceled further orders with the manufacturer. This same winter underwear turned out by the mill last fall and containing a large quantity of cotton, is causing much reflection on the part of the manufacturers under the present cotton famine. It is a question with them how much the wholesale price should be raised over what it was a year ago, and how large a raise the merchant, and especially the public, will stand."

"Several years ago the price of cotton was very low—about 5½ cents a pound. It steadily increased until it reached 9 cents, and in a comparatively short time it has reached the highwater mark of 14 cents, an increase of about 50 per cent in the raw material, which must mean an increase in the wholesale price of cotton goods turned out, or the closing down of the mills. Many mills have already been shut down or partly shut down."

Small Profit Now.

"It took several years to educate the public up to the 9-cent price of raw material, and to get the public to the 14-cent price in a few short months would be impossible. We are selling cotton goods now at a much reduced profit. There will probably be a slight raise in the price of cotton goods in Washington stores this fall."

It is the opinion of Washington merchants, however, that the high price of the raw material will be forced down by the refusal of the mills and the merchants to handle much cotton goods, leaving a surplus of cotton on the hands of the cotton brokers. They feel sure that the public will be spared any change to exorbitant prices.

TREASURY STATISTICS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR

Revenues From All Sources $558,887,526

The principal statistics of Treasury Department operations for the fiscal year just closed have been made public by Assistant Secretary Keep, showing the following:

Revenues from all sources, $558,887,526, made up of customs, $283,891,119; internal revenue, $226,115,256; miscellaneous sources, $48,881,151.

The expenditures for the year were $506,176,570, as follows: Civil and miscellaneous, $125,016,312; war (including rivers and harbors), $118,549,633; navy, $52,496,805; Indians, $12,931,580; pensions, $138,425,618; interest, $23,556,818. The surplus for the year is $52,710,956. In comparison with the previous fiscal year the revenues show a decrease of $3,590,707, and expenditures an increase of $34,985,732. The surplus shows a decrease of $38,576,439. The revenues from customs increased $29,447,036. The internal revenue receipts decreased $41,764,866, due wholly to the operation of the war revenue repeal act. The miscellaneous receipts increased $8,727,148. More than half of this increase is due to larger sales of public lands. The surplus for 1932 is $5,710,956 greater than was estimated. These figures do not include the revenues and expenditures of the postal service.

The available cash in the Treasury yesterday was $231,515,012, an increase of $19,257,651 over the cash in the Treasury at the corresponding date in 1932.

The total amount of gold in the Treasury on June 30, 1932, was $631,529,295, an increase of $71,439,598 over 1932. The outstanding gold certificates, less the amount of same in the Treasury, on June 30, 1932, were $379,356,783, an increase of $7,957,780 over the net amount in circulation at the beginning of the year. The Treasury notes of 1890, which amounted to $30,000,000 at the beginning of the fiscal year, have by the coinage of silver bullion into standard silver dollars and subsidiary silver, been reduced to $19,243,000. The amount of public money held by national bank depositaries on June 30, 1932, was $123,983,967, and on June 30, 1932, $151,724,432, an increase for the year of $27,740,465. The number of depositaries on June 30, 1932, is 710, an increase of 136 for the year.

Under the provisions of the Secretary's offer of March 26, 1932, the amount of bonds refunded up to close of business yesterday was $74,202,400. In effecting this exchange the Government has paid out $3,221,034 in cash for adjustment of premiums and accrued interest, and the annual interest charge on the interest-bearing debt of the United States has been reduced $1,339,962. Bonds to the amount of $10,529,600 have been purchased during the year for the sinking fund, reducing the annual interest charge by $661,437.

The total circulation of national banks on June 30, 1932, was $413,670,650. The increase for the year was $55,998,559.

The Controller of the Currency reports 537 new national banks organized during the past fiscal year. Of these 339 have a capital of $25,000 each approximately, in towns having a population of less than 3,000. About 42 per cent of such banks are not strictly new financial institutions, but conversions or reorganizations under the national bank laws of State and private banks already in existence. Five national banks have failed and seventy-two have gone into voluntary liquidation. This is a slight increase over the record of the 1932 fiscal year.

Grape-Nuts

Blue Monday

NO USE FOR IT
ANY MORE.

HOW good food put a good minister on his feet again is an interesting story. He says: "A little more than a year ago I commenced the use of Grape-Nuts food. At that time I had been suffering from dyspepsia for about five years. I had tried all the remedies my friends told me about but with no permanent relief."

"My Sabbath duties at that time nearly prostrated me, and the following day I was of no use to myself or to any one else."

"After beginning the food a change began to take place and gradually the dyspepsia and disturbance left me. Now I have gained twenty pounds and am free from stomach troubles that I suffered so long from."

"I can do twice the amount of work with ease, am well all the time, and naturally sing the praises of the delicious food that has put me right. I am perfectly willing to have my name appear as endorsing your excellent food, for I know from personal experience of its value."
